When Mio returned to the Jinna house to make sure of her feelings for Shouji, her younger brother Hinata had run away. Then, she accidentally finds a letter her mother wrote which reveals the secret of her birth. If ♡ I haven't been sleeping very well so I've been reading books for two or three hours before going to bed. But lately as soon as I get into my futon I fall fast asleep. I feel well-rested when I wake up, too, so my life is going well. However, I have all these books I haven't read. I have a tower of books I haven't read yet, next to my bed, which keeps falling down, and then I build it back up... I wish I had a whole week to just sit back and read—

Second-year high school student Eren, who lived with his mother and his little brother, Armin (who had a rather complex).

To support his poor family, Eren started working for the richest family in the neighborhood, the Shermas. The only son of that family, Shoma, at the same grade as Eren is an outstanding student at school, popular and popular, and the students nickname him "Prince." But at heart of Eren, he transforms into a "hacker."

The Prince decides to have Eren and Armin come to live in the Shermas house as his own servants. One night after watching the Prince and Shoma in bed, embracing...

But that was just Eren's plan to see Eren and the Prince apart. Eren makes the shocking confession to Eren that he is gay with her. Eren runs from the house in shock, but the Prince follows her and persuades her to come back to the Shermas house. But now Eren has run away! And what about his puzzling words to Eren...

My New Obsession

In the last volume, I talked about pre-writing, pre-writing, and writing habits, but lately I've gotten into collecting model cars. You can get them from magazines or on the street, but my addiction was started through manga.

I usually make 1/43 scale models, but they make them up to 1/18 scale.

There are many different kinds of model cars, like their almost counterparts, they come in all different makes and models.

For the size of the market, it has to be, I can't help but think, how expensive!

The most expensive ones are made by Kato Toys. You can buy the ones at an auction, but at this rate, how many will I have to buy...? I've been keeping them in special individual cases to keep them alive, but one morning I woke up to find the cases all over the floor... My door alarm had fallen and knocked them over.

My car-did it!

I wouldn't have minded if she'd knocked over a bottle of ink or something, but please, please stop doing that!

The materials about writing.

On-Set Pass.

has been using the computer to shop on now I have all those cardboard boxes lying around my house. On trash day I usually put those outside first, my little sister don't eat sometimes I don't need the extra oil in those supply.

I don't mind working with my hands so I added a little door and a window, so now it's a really cute and big. The cats really seem to like to sit on I made a big one for the big cat that belongs to my best friend (it took me two years).

My little sister got into the project and bought some supplies for wild another production made from some old tape crates. But the cats don't like it. They completely ignore them. It couldn't be helped, so I handed them over to my best friend with the cat who loves the house.

She discovered that you can buy cat boxes on the Internet, too. They have some really cute ones and some little beds for when children play inside. I'm going to get some of those when winter comes.

A straightforward talk

I wrote about this before when I talked about net loans, but I'm really into writing stuff off the internet now.

When you order things, you accumulate those points, which is fun in itself. For collecting net sales now. When I get an email and click on a link, I fill out a survey and get some number of sales.

So once you reach a certain number of sales, you can exchange them to the airline company for a gift. This is the only reason I'm doing it and has accumulated about 1000 sales.

Every day I do 50 sales plus 10.

I think it's pretty straightforward, but it's fun in a way that's different from writing, say, one per day.

And it's free!

It would be nice if I had this attitude towards my work...

Now? Finally!

It's been 11 years since my dream! Almost! And I've finally learned how to cut proper bangs with a design knife. Since a design knife is designed specifically to cut bangs, it has a much sharper edge. If yours isn't rounded, that the edge will break off!

So up until now, I've just been using a regular hair-n-knife.

But, I wasn't cutting very finely. I understood the theory behind finding the exact angle to cut, but still...

On one day (just for fun) I decided to try out a design knife, and I was able to do it! It was so much more exact than usual! It's been 11 years since my dream. 11 years as a pro HAIR 12 years now. Finally.

It's like making 11 years to learn how to become yourself as a stylist.

I finally learned this bang cut! I'm done.

IT'S BETTER
THIS WAY.

On the Stock Market.

I started at the end of my nineteenth year in Gosh. I'm okay with now but I have my worries about it just like everybody else.

But I want to find myself a stockbroker. I've never taken a huge risk and lost.

However, on another level, well, I've learned for myself I should think twice on the Internet absolutely.

A stockbroker is a go-between for the buyer and the seller. It's part of the middleman from whom the big name seller gets my assets, the investor they never gets frustrated, and the investor gets reliable discounts. But the big stockbrokers have really high prices, so I can't really buy them. So every day I'm on a search for a reasonable, reasonable plan.

Someday I think I'll explore stocks and bonds here.

I don't understand the stock market.
